LYNDONVILLE.

A part of the dining room in the basement of Music Hall is being converted into lockups where those suffering with over-indulgence of fire water who make such a disturbance that a place is required for them to cool off, will hereafter be lodged. Criminals will also find room here as fast as the local police gather them in. A drunk and a tramp found lodgings in the cooler one day last week. The drunk had made considerable disturbance, but he was let off the next day when some friends paid his fine. He took the next train out of town per agreement. Mike Rheame, a former employer of John Perrault in the Burke creamery, got hilariously drunk, forged Perrault's check for $30, which he claimed Perrault was owing him, got the money, treated his friends and wound up in possession of the officers. The money was refunded by friends and the case was not further pushed. It was a fortunate escape for him and it is hoped the experience will treat him to fight shy of rum.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. C. B. Dodge; vice-president, Mrs. H. C. Wilson; secretary, Mrs. A. L. Finney; treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Ford; dressmakers, Mrs. E. Wilcox, Miss Clara Shirley and Mrs. G. G. Wheeler. The retiring president, Mrs. S. J. Wilson, has held the office for two years and has served the society in a most efficient manner. As soon as the debt of $418, incurred in building the new church parlors and equipping them with electric lights, etc., is paid, they will purchase a piano and add it to these already well-furnished rooms. A good part of this debt is already paid. The receipts of this society for the past year were $118.

The annual state encampment of Sons of Veterans and Ladies' Aid societies was held here Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Nearly a hundred delegates were present from all parts of the state. Tuesday evening a reception was tendered the visitors in G. A. R. hall. Speeches were made by Commander E. L. Wells, of the local G. A. R. Post, J. T. Gleason, Capt. Willey of the local S. of V., and C. V. Woodry, of Cabot. Mrs. Blackmer, president of the state Ladies' Aid, made a short address. Division Commander A. L. Howe of Brattleboro and his staff attended the reception in a body. Business sessions were held Wednesday evening and afternoon, the different reports showing the state camp to be in the best financial condition of several years past and this notwithstanding the fact that the number of camps and members show a little decrease. The parade was to have come off at four o'clock Wednesday, but it had to be postponed till the next day on account of the rainy weather. A good audience attended the campfire in the evening and enjoyed the following programme: Address of Welcome, O. G. Chase, chairman village trustees; response, Frank A. Green, Past Col. St. Albans; selection, Ladies' Quartet; remarks, W. W. LaPoint, Past Capt. Barre; song, selected, Miss Gertrude Knight; piano solo, Miss Carrie Eaton; selection from the "Riviera," Prof. and Mrs. F. A. Metcalf, Boston; song, Mrs. B. G. Morrison, with flute obligato by N. P. Lovering; reading, Miss Mertie Aldrich, West Burke; piano solo, Royal M. Howe; remarks, Arthur I. Howe, Col. Vt. Div., S. V.; selection, Ladies' Quartet. Programme to conclude with the singing of "America" by the audience.

The shops start in on ten hours a day next Tuesday and the boys haven't felt so happy in a long time. How long will continue is not known, but if business is picking up as reports indicate it may be a permanent thing.

NEWBURY.

Death of Mrs. David T. Wells.

Maria Palmer, wife of Dea. on David T. Wells, died from the effects of a paralytic shock, June 15. She was the youngest of the eight children of Dudley and Abigail (Pickering) Palmer, and was born May 14, 1813, at Brighton, Maine. About 1837 she went to Concord, N. H., where her brother, Col. D. S. Palmer, was editor of the New Hampshire Courier, and attended an academy. She then taught near Rochester, N. H., and later that entered a cotton mill in Lowell for the sake of better pay. Lucy Larcum, the poet, was her roommate for some time, and she afterwards roomed with a niece of Prof. Benjamin Silliman. These were contributors to the "Lowell Offering," a publication maintained entirely by factory girls, and of which Charles Dickens in his "American Notes" speaks with unalloyed admiration. John G. Whittier, then just beginning to be known, used to come up from Newburyport and revise their manuscript for the press.

In 1846 she married David T. Wells, the anniversary of their golden wedding being celebrated last September.

Mrs. Wells early became a member of a Methodist church in Maine, and while living in Lowell, united with the First Congregational church and was a member of the choir. She was received into the First Congregational church of Newbury in 1847 and of the West Newbury church in 1868, and has been a Sunday School teacher more than fifty years.

Mrs. Wells was loved by all who knew her for her life was made up of kind words and deeds, and she showed herself as all times a woman of intelligence and firm Christian character. She leaves a husband and one son, F. P. Wells, who have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

ST. JOHNSBURY CENTRE.

Death of Mrs. Roddick.

On Friday, June 25, Mrs. Lilla Stiles Roddick passed from the loving circle of earthly home and friends into the loving circle of waiting friends in her heavenly home. There are sad hearts here because her place is vacant, but her home above is firmer and gladder because one of the Father's dear children is reunited with her own, there to dwell forever. Mrs. Roddick occupied a large place in the hearts of the people who knew her. From a child she has been a member of the Methodist church and for fifteen years an active member of the Woman's Christian Temperance union. She has been interested and helpful in many of the reform and benevolent objects of her town and state. She had less ambition for herself than for others. Her life was spent in doing good. Especially for the young people did she plan and work and pray. They were ever on her heart. Everywhere she was true, loyal and faithful, and the influence of her beautiful life will widen continually. The rain, the sunshine and the rainbow which hung in the sky at her burial service are emblems of our sorrow, glorified by the truth of the eternal word, giving us the sure hope in the promise, "Whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die."

Two important phases of the school question have been occupying the minds of our people for some days, but have now been disposed of. The meeting called by the directors last Saturday amounted to a very emphatic protest against consolidation of the districts, as hardly any of the village people who favored the movement took any part in the discussion. This will probably be all that will be done in this line. Wednesday evening the district voters met, as called, and voted to settle with the town in regard to the district money distributed when the town school law took effect. Since the last meeting it has been found necessary to elect a new collector to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of James K. Stevens, and to raise the necessary amount of money for setting the law suit and another meeting is called for Friday evening, July 9, at 8 o'clock. We understand Bible hill district has already settled by paying back what had been distributed in all cases where individuals or property are still taxable.

The subject of the sermon to be given at the Methodist church next Sunday morning will be "Goodness and the greatness of the good."

The celebration talked of for tomorrow has been abandoned and there will be nothing to remind people here of the glorious fourth except the small boy, and he will probably do his best to impress the importance of the occasion upon the minds of all. The band will furnish the music for an old-fashioned celebration at West Concord.

WATERFORD.

Golden Wedding.

Fifty years ago last week Thursday Amos B. Carpenter of this town and Cosby Parker of Littleton, N. H., were united in marriage. The Golden Wedding day was fittingly observed. Friends and relatives commenced to call early in the morning, and at two in the afternoon a large company of 150 enjoyed refreshments on the lawn in the old-fashioned picnic style. This part of the day's programme was in charge of the ladies and it was finely carried out. A large number of presents were received, among them $50 in gold and other gold articles. The presentation speech was made by Rev. G. I. Bard of Walpole, N. H., and the response by Mr. Carpenter was a good one. An address was made by Chief Judge Jonathan Ross, who congratulated Mr. Carpenter on the large family he had raised and thought that in this respect his was a good example for all to follow. E. L. Hovey spoke of Mr. Carpenter's enthusiasm in the Civil war and of his helping those that went. Fred Lang of Minneapolis spoke of those that were absent. The rain that came up about noon prevented many from St. Johnsbury who intended to be present from going over. It was a pleasant occasion and one long to be remembered by the large company present.

Amos B. Carpenter was born in Waterford 79 years ago the 25th of last May, the son of Isaiah and Caroline Carpenter. His mother was the daughter of Dr. Ralph Buggy, a long ago well known surgeon of these parts. Isaiah Carpenter was one of the earliest settlers in Waterford, coming here in about 1800 and clearing and settling on the farm where the son, Amos, still lives. Several children were born to Isaiah and Caroline Carpenter on this farm, of whom only two are now living, Alonzo, the chief judge of New Hampshire, and Amos. A daughter, Elizabeth, was the first wife of the Hon. Jonathan Ross, chief judge of Vermont.

Amos spent his boyhood days in his native town, attending the district school and when old enough helping his father on the farm. Obtaining all the education the district school could give him, he turned school master himself and followed that occupation for a while, but soon drifted back to the old home farm again. On the 24th day of June, 50 years ago, he was united in marriage with Cosby Parker, a daughter of a prosperous Littleton farmer. The family lived just across the river from Waterford, and the two were well acquainted with one another from early childhood. Every wedding anniversary is also the birthday of Mrs. Carpenter, who was 18 years old on the day of her marriage.

After his marriage, Amos and his young wife settled down on the old home farm, working a while for his father and then purchasing the farm. Here seven children have been born to them, four girls and three boys. Two sons, E. P. and M. L., still live in the old home. E. P. is married and has four children. Herbert, the third son, is a prosperous lawyer in California. Three of the daughters were married on the same day about 20 years ago, Althea to S. J. Hastings, present side judge of Caledonia county court; Caroline to Langdon Cummings of Waterford, now living in the west, and another one to Mr. Cutting of West Concord. Caroline afterwards died and Mr. Cummings married the fourth daughter, Mary, for his second wife.

The old farm is a good one, consisting of 400 acres, and has for nearly a century provided the Carpenter family with a living and something to spare. The present house was erected about 65 years ago by Isaiah Carpenter and is built of brick made on the farm. It is a solid, substantial and roomy building. The farm buildings have been improved from time to time and are all good ones. The farm is now run by the sons, E. P. and M. L., who also run a creamery.

For a number of years Mr. Carpenter has done little work about the farm, but has devoted most of his time to compiling a genealogy of the Carpenter family. He has been at work upon this more or less for 25 or 30 years. He has traveled all over New England in search of "Carpenters" and has had correspondence with people of that name all over the United States and in foreign countries. The book is now being printed and will probably be one of the most complete works of the kind ever published. The book will contain over 800 pages, and the number of different people named Carpenter mentioned in it will reach into the thousands somewhere. An edition of 800 will be printed, costing $1,500, 350 already being sold at $10 each. The work is being done by a Providence, R. I., firm, and is about half finished.

Mr. Carpenter claims to be the first man to own a mowing machine in Caledonia county, it being one of the first Walter Wood machines and for which he was an agent 35 or 40 years ago. He represented Waterford in the state legislature six years ago, has held many town offices, and for many years has been the Waterford postmaster. His public duties were always well and faithfully done. He is still in good health, eyesight good, hearing acute and is remarkably lively for a man of his years. Mrs. Carpenter, while quite dead, still enjoys good health and does considerable work about the house. She is a cheerful, amiable woman, and much esteemed by all who know her.

Among those who were present during the day from out of town were Mrs. E. B. Parker of Boston, brother of Mrs. Carpenter; Mr. Knights and daughter of Franconia, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Swasey of Newbury; a daughter, Mrs. Cummings and three children, from Iowa.

About 200 Italians commenced work Tuesday morning on the construction of the Barre and Montpelier electric railroad. The contractors are Ferguson & Richardson of Boston. The road will start in front of the state house, continue along State street to Barre street to the Berlin line, then pass through Berlin to the city of Barre and proceed to the fair ground in the Granite city, while a spur will be thrown out, running up Washington street to the cemetery, about eight miles of track. This road will be the best electric road ever built on Vermont soil and will start business with nine elegant cars. The rails will be 60 feet in length, twice as long as any now in use on any Vermont railroad. An up-to-date snow plow will clear the track in winter. The service between Montpelier and Barre will be half hourly, and the fare will be only five cents. If everything goes smoothly, the entire road will be in operation not later than September 1st. The road is largely built by Burlington capital, John J. Flynn, F. C. Kennedy, A. O. Humphrey, and J. S. Pierson being associated with others in the enterprise.
